

Organ at Intrada Brass concert

Dominik Kurek, Oakville Beaver

March 22, 2012

The brass and percussion players of Intrada Brass of Oakville will get some assistance at their upcoming Organic Brass concert on Sunday, March 25.

The 30-piece group will be joined by organist Jurgen Petrenko for the concert.

Petrenko is the organist at St. John's Anglican Church in Elora and has been a CBC Radio music producer for many years.

The afternoon performance at St. John's United Church in Oakville will be the performance of the complete final movement of The Organ Symphony by French composer Camille Saint-Saëns.

The piece will be arranged for band and organ by the new Intrada Brass conductor Kevin Norbury, who will be conducting his first concert in his new role.

Petrenko will play on the Casavant pipe organ at the Oakville church. He will also do a solo performance of the Toccata movement from the Organ Symphony by another French composer, Charles Marie Widor.

Furthermore, the concert will feature Petrenko performing Ave Maria along with cornetist Robert Venables.

The concert will also feature William Walton's coronation march Crown Imperial, written for the coronation of King George VI in 1937. There will also be music written by Johann Sebastian Bach and Gioachino Rossini.

The concert begins at 2:30 p.m. The church is located at 262 Randall St. Tickets cost $20 or $15 for students and seniors. Tickets are available at the door or at L'Atelier Grégorien in downtown Oakville. For more information, visit www.intradabrass.org.

This article is for personal use only courtesy of InsideHalton.com - a division of Metroland Media Group Ltd.
